

News

:: npower renewables - world's largest wave power project wins approval ::

npower renewables' plan for a pioneering wave power scheme on the Scottish island of Lewis has been given the green light – making it the largest consented project of its kind.

:: Press Release 30/07/08 ::

Jim Mather, MSP, Scottish Government Minister for Enterprise, Energy and Tourism today officially started the new Wavegen 100kW turbine which will be deployed in future wave energy projects worldwide.

:: npower renewables submit plans for 4MW wave power scheme on Lewis using Wavegen technology ::

A new wave power station on the Isle of Lewis, one of the first in the world, moves a step closer today (23 April 08) as npower renewables submits a planning application for the ground-breaking scheme.

:: New CEO at Wavegen ::

Wavegen have appointed Matthew Seed as their new CEO.

:: Wavegen Acquire ISO Certification 31/07/07 ::

Wavegen now have ISO 9001 & ISO 14001 Certification.

:: Wavegen Prizewinner 16/07/07 ::

Lionel Maciver scoops top prize.

:: Press Release 02/07/07 ::

From Scotland to Spain: First commercial breakwater wave energy plant world-wide to be built in Spanish Mutriku.

:: Press Release 13/06/07 ::

Voith is one of the regulars whenever future energy generation systems are being discussed – including the G8-Summit last week.

:: Press Release 22/02/07 ::

Voith Siemens Hydro's new and global Integrated Management System

:: Press Release 07/08/06 ::

Voith Siemens Hydro/Wavegen and npower renewables on the road to creating real power from waves

:: Press Release 19/06/06 ::

Wave power to make a splash in Lewis

:: Press Release 29/03/2006 ::

Technology for first wave power station in Germany will be provided by Voith Siemens Hydro Power Generation

:: Archived News 2000 - 2006... ::

news

contact

media

links

terms

Wavegen Brochure

